Legitimate Mining

The expression frequently heard these days that the mining share game is dead, and that with the states passing blue-sky laws there no longer will be found a market for mining issues where the harvest in the past have been generous. Says the Salt Lake Tribune. The speculative characteristics of the public, however, are not dead, they are merely dormant, and a better analysis of the situation will convince one that interest in mining stocks will be newly aroused by mine developments, especially new mines, whereas an attempt to revive mining development by way of the stock market will fail miserably.

It has come to a point where those knowing the mining game, the business of digging for metals, must take it up and put into it a share of the money this same industry has rewarded them with in the past. The financing of new companies, or the disposal of treasury stock of existing companies, cannot be brought about through the stock markets. It is a personal matter and those capable of bringing about a revival of the industry must do so along the good old fashioned lines where speculation may follow, not precede, actual developments.

It is pointed out that for some years past the public has speculated on results long before results were possible or even probable. The game has been played too much from the wrong end, and Utah should never forget that for all business throughout the whole state the mining industry must be revived from within, and with the actual development of properties as the starting point.

The Situation in Tonopah

It is interesting to note the opinion of the eastern mining press regarding the future of Tonopah. The following from the New York Mining Age expresses the opinion as observed in that city.

The mining situation in Tonopah is fraught with meaning and with opportunities.

A few short years ago Tonopah Mining was the whole camp. Then came Belmont. Then West End and Tonopah Extension began to open large ore bodies away to the west of what the public was beginning to regard as the absolute westerly limit of the camp's enrichment. These latter developments, however much they may have meant to the district as a whole, did not arouse any wide spread enthusiasm, and the rise in the stocks, though marked, was comparatively staid and dignified.

Today, however, we see North Star blossoming from an assessment forlorn hope into a shipping mine, with carloads of $50 ore being forwarded to the smelters. We see Tonopah Merger, reorganized out of a near-dead dog, drop suddenly into a rich vein of ore. We see feverish markets, influenced by all the glamor of rich silver ore, by the frenzied speculation on what may be developed, and by about all the tricks known to stock market manipulators.

Tonopah is growing. The limits of the ore bearing zone are extending to the north, to the south, to the west, and possibly to the east. The markets are at the moment dominated by speculation arising from but not necessarily dependent upon the mine showings, and hence we see fluctuations in values both wide and violent.

From a mining standpoint the camp seems now to be in the most promising period of its history. Today we have numbered among producing mines the Tonopah Mining, Belmont, Montana, West End, Tonopah Extension, MacNamara, Merger, North Star and Jim Butler. Tomorrow there may be one or half a dozen added to the list of producers from the ranks of the companies now exploring with seemingly as good chances for success as had the North Star and Merger.

How long the market will be ruled by speculation none can say, but in the end mine values alone will rule prices—and mine values in Tonopah are increasing.

A Chicago youth, penniless and out of work fell heir to $30,000. He is unfortunate in being unable to make the customary announcement that notwithstanding the sudden riches he will continue to hold his job.

We haven't heard of Receiver Wildes filing a suit for libel against the attorney general owing to the latter charging fraud in his motion to set aside the court orders allowing Wildes' salary.

Mexico appears to be becoming civilized. The latest is to impeach President Huerta instead of the more speedy method used in deposing Madero.

The newspapers that have been predicting war between the United States and Japan will be disappointed if their predictions are for naught.

A woman died in Kansas City several days ago after eating chocolate pie. Moral: Don't eat chocolate pie; order apple pie.

PRESCRIPTION

It DOES make a difference where you have your prescription filled. It's too serious a matter to be entrusted to a novice or to a druggist whose incomplete stock might tempt him to substitution.

Our Prescription Department is run by graduate pharmacists, and the stock of drugs they have to draw from includes everything a physician could call for.

There is no possible way of insuring greater accuracy than by the system employed here.

Chairman Simmons' announcement that the senate finance committee will hold no tariff hearings is most welcome. There will be debate enough in the upper chamber to try the patience of a stone. The quicker the tariff bill is enacted the better for all concerned.—Springfield.

DRAWING PLANS FOR CHANGES TO STATE CAPITOL

TWO NEW WINGS WILL BE ADDED AS AUTHORIZED BY LAST LEGISLATURE.

F. J. DeLoneham, a Reno architect has been commissioned to draw plans for the changes in the state capitol for which an appropriation of $60,000 was made by the last legislature. The details have been considered, a trip to Carson having been made this week for that purpose. It has been decided to add two wings of 45 by 60 feet and two stories each, making the main facade of the capitol 225 feet over all. In one of these wings on the upper floor the senate chamber will be located and in the other the assembly chamber. The present chambers will be thrown into committee rooms and offices. The lower floors of the new wings will be used for such state offices as those of the state engineer, railroad commission, banking board and industrial commission. The wings of the capitol are to be constructed from the buff sandstone quarried from the penitentiary yards and the inside will be decorated with ornamental plaster and composition. The plans, it is stated, are already under way, and will be ready for figures within 60 days.

MILITARY WORK STATE COLLEGE TO BE GRADED

NEVADA UNIVERSITY WILL BE PLACED IN NEW CLASS BY INSPECTOR.

Although the university of Nevada has no chance this year to be among the 10 institutions of the country to receive special mention for excellence in military work, the cadet battalion will go after the honors in earnest next year. When Captain Merry, U. S. A., government inspecting officer, was in Reno recently, he informed Captain Applewhite, commandant of cadets that next year the system of classifying the institutions is to be changed. Heretofore only strictly military institutions could be considered in placing the first ten. Hereafter there will be two classes, one of institutions whose cadets average more than 22 years old and one in which they average less than that age. In the first division the universities of the country maintaining cadet battalions which are recognized will have place, and this means that Nevada can try for mention as a distinguished institution.

"ALONG LIFE'S PATH"

Miss Viola Mae is goin' to attend de soiree at Mrs. Gauntier's dis aft'. "Why certainly I is, Mr. Romain. I hear she's goin' to serbe de refreshments a la buffet. She's got one of dem El Perco coffee perculiarators she brung back from de city. But de Power Company's goin' to hab a sale of 'em nex' Sat'day at twenty-five per cent off an' after dat she certainly won't be de only lady in dis town assistin' her frien's to regaiments from de side board!"

"Is dat so? An' nex' week I've invited to de celebration ob Mr. an' Mrs. Butterworth Livingston's weddin' anniversary an' I've most 'specially struck wid de fac' dat one ob dem perculiarators would be a mos' assumptuous an' attractive weddin' presen' fo' 'em."

"Why, Mr. Romain, what wonderful puzel taste yo' displays! Yo' couldn' ob selected a mo' brilliant gif'! Wid de hot weather comin' on, when de ladies dialikes so much to be ag'avated by de heat ob de stove, or eben de smell of gas, an' stirikin' ob matches, to say nothin' ob de dangers ob becomin' asfixiated. I've certainly goin' to hab one ob 'em myself! Why, you can make coffee in 'em befo' you can turn 'roun' twice. Ob co'se de price is no objec' to yo', but I jes can't see how dat Power Company can sell 'em so cheap! But let me caution you 'bout one thing, though. Yo' better make a specialized effort to be in attendance at de sale as early in de dap as possible, 'cause de occasion is sho to be so largely attended by bofe cullud an' white, dat it's very hard indeed to receive de attention ob de clerks. I really enjoys witnassin' de aggregation ob so many ob Tonopah's bees dressed in dyes! Why, wid de exception ob de Fo'th ob July an' circus day, dey's nothin' like hit!"
